“A CLASSY COURTROOM DRAMA, ABOUT A TEENAGE GIRL ACCUSED OF MURDER, POSES INTRIGUING QUESTIONS ABOUT JUDGMENT VERSUS JUSTICE.”

- THE GUARDIAN

“IN A WAY, DEMOUSTIER’S FILM IS AN INVERSE COMING-OF-AGE FILM, INTERESTED IN HOW A TEENAGE GIRL DEVELOPS WHEN THE MOST IMPORTANT YEARS OF DEVELOPMENT ARE STUNTED. THE FINAL IMAGES ARE TELLING AND TRAGIC.”

- FILM INQUIRY

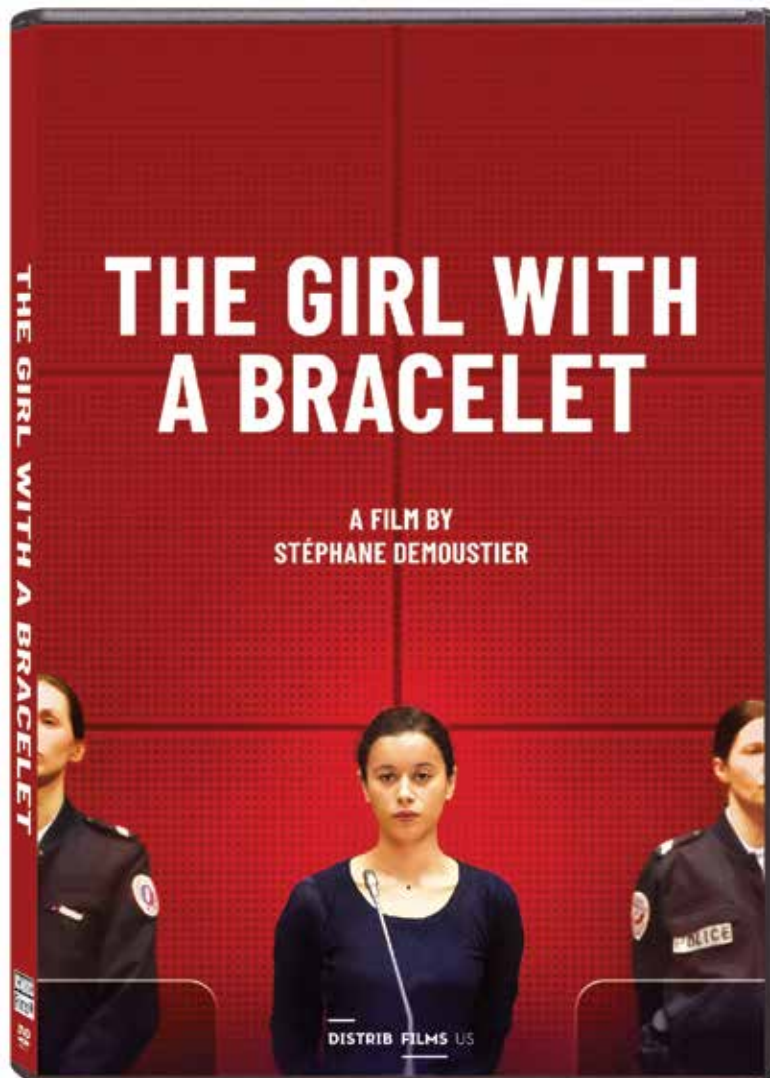

“WHAT DEMOUSTIER HAS DONE HERE, AND DONE QUITE SUCCESSFULLY, IS TAKEN A BASIC MYSTERY PLOT, LIKE SOMETHING OUT OF A TV MOVIE, AND USED IT TO PONDER HOW EACH ONE OF US COULD REACT TO A GHASTLY CRIME, AND HOW WE EXPECT OTHERS TO REACT IN TURN.”

- HOLLYWOOD REPORTER

It begins as an ordinary family outing on the beach. Then things turn dark as 17-year-old Lise, from a wealthy middle-class family, comes under investigation following the death of her best friend. As her parents (Chiara Mastroianni, Roschdy Zem) deal with the trauma in different ways, Lise is required to account for a way of life that doesn't always fit the morality approved of by the justice system. This third feature by writer-director Stéphane Demoustier is a razor-sharp judicial drama with echoes of Camus, Simenon and Henri-Georges Clouzot. A superb cast includes Anaïs Demoustier, on top form as an implacable prosecuting counsel. And as Lise, newcomer Melissa Guers offers a mesmerizing performance as the young woman whose very self is the mystery under investigation.
